

News / Community / Community Spotlight

Fine Treatment reverses BPH using the energy of male's own body

Fine Treatment reverses BPH using the energy of male's own body (Posted by Kathy Colace, Community Contributor)

By Posted by Kathy Colace, Community Contributor

NOVEMBER 28, 2018, 3:40 AM

RateShield™
Approval

Get the Strength of a Cash Buyer and Take the Anxiety
Out of the Home
Buying Process
with a RateShield
ApprovalSM from Quicken Loans

LEARN MORE

<https://www.dailypress.com/news/community/spotlight/dp-ugc-article-fine-treatment-reverses-bph-using-the-energy-2018-11-28-story.html>

The prevalence of benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH) increases markedly with increasing age and affects 70% of men aged 60-69 years in the United States. As the world's population ages, the incidence and prevalence of BPH or prostate enlargement plays a significant role in the quality of life of men, as it affects 80% of those 70 years and older.

Thermobalancing therapy® and Dr Allen's Device have been patented in the US as "Therapeutic device and method". The patent is an acknowledgement that it is indeed a completely new method that uses own body energy for chronic non-malignant diseases.

Dr Allen's Device for Prostate Treatment, offered by Fine

Treatment, <http://finetreatment.com> , applies a natural thermoelement tightly to the body in the projection of a prostate gland. The thermoelement accumulates the emitted body heat and becomes a source of energy. This safe energy improves blood circulation in the prostate stopping the organ from enlarging and even reducing its size.

Standard treatments for BPH are medication therapy and various surgical interventions. Both treatment options have serious side effects and complications that negatively affect the quality of life of millions of men in the USA.

Health problems associated with standard treatment for BPH

Urinary symptoms, such as frequent urination at night, a weak urine flow, or the feeling that you should urinate after you just went, or other similar signs often appear in men after 50. This is due to an enlarged prostate that presses the urethra and bladder. However, an enlarged prostate is not a life-threatening condition, so it should be treated with caution.

At the same time, long-term courses of high-risk drugs are widely used to treat BPH. Medications, which are prescribed to men for years, are as follows:

Alpha blockers, which relax the muscle of the prostate and bladder neck that allows urine to flow more easily, Tamsulosin, terazosin, etc. These drugs can develop fatigue, headache, dizziness and sexual dysfunction.
Hormonal drugs - 5 alpha reductase inhibitors:

finasteride, Avodart responsible for irreversible side effects: impotence, depression, testicle pain, and even diabetes.

It should be noted that BPH drugs are becoming ineffective gradually, but the side effects do not disappear, causing depression.

Men are looking for a surgical procedure to remove the prostate gland or part of it. Surgical procedures, including minimal invasive, have many unpleasant and life-long complications and should be taken only as a treatment of last resort.

Thermobalancing therapy uses the energy of men's body to treat his prostate

There is nothing miracle in Thermobalancing therapy. For the first time, the therapy uses the energy of the body to improve the condition of the affected organ. The Aging Male Journal has published an article, titled "The Use of Thermobalancing therapy in ageing male with benign prostatic hyperplasia with a focus on etiology and pathophysiology". This article explains that Thermobalancing therapy is effective as it tackles the cause of prostate enlargement.

10-year empirical evidence and clinical research show that Dr. Allen's device effectively reduces prostate volume and, as a result, urinary symptoms in men with an enlarged prostate

The outcomes of clinical investigations on Thermobalancing therapy were published in leading peer-reviewed medical journals. The efficacy of Thermobalancing therapy was discussed by medical professionals at the different health conferences worldwide: in Spain, China, Italy and other countries.

Fine Treatment is a provider of innovative Thermobalancing therapy to everyone

Unlike the cost of standard procedures, calculated in thousands of US dollars, the Dr Allen device with a price of less than 200 US dollars is the most economical solution for BPH treatment.

Fine Treatment manufactures and distributes Dr Allen's Device for Prostate Treatment worldwide via Royal Mail Tracking service within a week. The price of delivery is included in the total price of the device.

Dr Allen's Device is a class 1 medical device, which does not require the involvement of a notified body. As this treatment method is side effects free, every man can use it at home without worrying.

"Innovative Thermobalancing therapy can help millions of men with enlarged prostate gland to improve the quality of life and well-being throughout the world," published in the World Scientific News, is one of various scientific articles that provide detailed information about Thermobalancing therapy with Dr Allen's device, which uses the energy of its own male body to treat the affected prostate.